

EMILY REYNOLDS

Founder & CEO of R Public Relations

*New York native. Nomad by choice. Mermaid hair aspirant. Yoga junkie.
Mother. Hugger. Boutique hotel seeker. Lover of pink drinks under big moons.*

Emily Reynolds Bergh is a consummate marketing and public relations pro with 15+ years of experience delivering personalized, top-caliber PR services to a diverse array of clients. She possesses deep knowledge and expansive application of best practices in her industry that produce remarkable results and exceptional outcomes for her client base, particularly in the hospitality, business, and technology spaces. For each and every client she represents, her aim is to empower the attainment of their highest professional goals and drive their brands to flourish.

The path to her current role at the helm of R Public Relations LLC started by co-authoring a book in grad school that taught her the power of the written word and the value of storytelling. Having found her passion and purpose, Emily dove headfirst into freelance promotional writing, most notably an ongoing gig for Taste magazine, and then progressed through a series of pivotal PR positions at Jason Dady Restaurant Group in San Antonio, Bread & Butter in Austin, and Bay Bird in San Diego — all the while amassing specialty expertise that would allow her to branch out on her own.

Launched in Texas in 2016, R Public Relations is an uncommonly customer-focused boutique lifestyle agency that now operates out of five national hub cities. Every day, Emily's work is enhanced by the distinct perspective her advanced degrees in psychology, philosophy, and social work bring to her team's campaigns, and she remains motivated by her intention to better the world around her with her outreach efforts, proud to share that vision with her carefully curated list of clients who are equally committed to making an impactful mark on their local communities.

Emily has been featured in a multitude of publications and podcasts — including PR on the Go, BuzzFeed, Successful Entrepreneur, and Authority Magazine — and her firm has earned myriad awards, including being named Top PR Agency by multiple outlets, Best PR Firm in Nashville by Expertise, Best 5-Star Lifestyle & Hospitality PR Agency in the Eastern USA by LUXlife, and a standout in the areas of crisis management, content marketing, media planning, and event management by numerous industry award panels. She currently serves as a member of the Forbes Business Council and is a regular contributor to Entrepreneur.

When she's not immersed in the work she relishes, Emily prioritizes time with her family — her husband, Colter, and their five “peaches,” as she calls their children — sharing cultural adventures and traveling to points far and wide with them, always on the lookout for R's next great find along the way. Emily's philosophy on life and lifestyle are one and the same, inspired by her hilltop home in Upstate New York: Your stories have power — make them move mountains!
